About Me

- I'm 1st Year Computer Science student in AISAT. I learned front end developer through online platform and I'm confident and I'm willing to learn more to capitalize my skillsets.
- I don't have experience in work. But I understand the basic fundamentals when developing a front end website. I know how to use the most common properties in styling the flex box and grid layout.
- For Several months learning front end developer I also develop some personal projects that I confident to share to my clients visit my Github account or my portfolio, and all repos are uploaded.
- My goal is to leverage my skillset to produce user-friendly interfaces that meet the needs of the target audience. I am committed to delivering high-quality work that aligns with the requirements gathered from stakeholders.
